

MAP THE TRUTH

What: Our COVID-19 social justice guide is a reflection of the love, unity, and uplifting positivity that several partner organizations aim to spread amongst all suffering communities.

Why: Created as a direct response to the rampant rise of toxic disinformation and hate-based bigotry witnessed amid this pandemic, this guide addresses solutions to move us forward by acknowledging the full-scale impact of the coronavirus — especially on marginalized communities — as well as the need to follow the critical advice of leading world health officials.

How to use: Take a journey and read this as you would a roadmap so that it takes you through a journey of learning, and unlearning. Engage with the social media toolkit to pass on shareable graphics far and wide. The first step to tackling hate is always to open our doors to conversations centered in love, and in one another — together.
